Chede, Miss Fortune, Saint Raas, Lady Jaye, Nicky Dollars have a feature cast which consists of the entire lionfox family including executive producer Shake Dua. Pretty Pink Panties reviewer - cgod4thstreetz A sharp collection of original music show casing the depth and dexterity of the lionfox foxy feline movement. love, hate, joy, pain, hope, anger, and revenge all share their place on this 19 song disc of divas and doves. cohesive, skillful and fun, the songs flow in and out of each other like a lake. lacy and racy, pretty pink panties, projects a picture perfect for its broad palette. put this cd on repeat. why this name? the album name was picked by our producer, shake dua. he has several projects on his plate thought that it would be in our best interest (at this time) to collaborate coordinate our efforts in this manner. pretty pink panties basically speaks for its self to a certain degree, the lead artists are all young women with tremendous skill. we're all quite feminine, but thats where we actually differ from the whole idea of what pretty pink panties should or might represent. we're hard as any dude you hear on our record, or anywhere else. basically, don't be fooled by the pretty pink panties! -chede would you sign a record contract with a major label? we're doing the lionfox thing, strictly. if shake feels that it's in our better interest to sign to a major in the future, we're totally behind that maneuver, but you've gotta understand (even i know) the situation has to be lucrative with release guarantees, because we already sell records! big shout out to shake dua, alot of this probably wouldn't of happened w/ out you big daddy! -miss fortune check us out @ our official website lionfox ent.com!
