In the past year, Mac has toured up and down the East Coast as a solo artist and percussionist. He has played at Universities from New York to Florida after having successfully showcased at both the NACA and APCA conferences. Mac began playing percussion at the age of fourteen and soon picked up the guitar and piano, making him a very sought after musician on the Buffalo scene. While attending the University of New York at Buffalo, he was elected into the Buffalo Chips, an all male acapella group where he quickly became one of the group's top soloists, setting a new record for most solos by any member. While in the Buffalo Chips, Mac won several awards including "Best Soloist" at the Northeast NACA Acapella Competition. After leaving school to be a full time musician, Mac formed BitterSweet, an acoustic based, harmony doused group that released its only album, 'A Pipe Dream', to critical acclaim. The Buffalo News called 'A Pipe Dream', "one of the most talked about albums since its release." Now out on his own, Mac has settled in NYC and is fastly becoming a favorite on the singer/songwriter scene there. His debut album, "Music for a Promising Moon Sky", is due out in August 2005.
