Great Plains wide open songs, strong female voice with intricate lyrics and irresistible melodies. 14 MP3 Songs FOLK: Gentle, KIDS/FAMILY: Kid Friendly Details: From tomatoes and families to interstate highways and the clear blue sky, Love Weather will blow through you like a prairie wind. Revealing the landscape and emotion of contemporary life on the great plains, Ann Zimmerman finds the universal heart of each song. The originals mesh seamlessly with the standards of Hoagy Carmichael and George Gershwin and more contemporary gems by Nanci Griffith, John Gorka and others. The songs will play on in your memory. As in all her music, Ann sings the prairie into universal language. Her music celebrates life on the windy plains, in all its joy, sorrow, grandeur and silliness. She accompanies her wonderful voice with piano, guitar and the audience itself. Ann has taken her Kansas style across the Great Plains and beyond to New York, Seattle, Boston, Texas and Alaska and turned each audience into her backup choir. Blending old and new folksongs, cabaret numbers, and her own award-winning creations, Ann's concerts tell stories and paint portraits, brilliantly-colored and unexpected, highlighted with an irresistible stage presence. She has released three independent recordings of her music. Nominated for a national grass-roots grammy, Ann is a long-standing member of the juried Kansas Arts on Tour and Mid-America Arts Alliance programs. She appears annually at the world-renowned Land Institute in central Kansas, was selected to perform for the dedication of the Tallgrass Prairie National Preserve and has entertained at festivals, farmers markets, fancy theaters, and smoky divessing more than one hundred dates each year. She has shared stages and harmonies with folk musician John McCutcheon; songwriter Steve Gillette; Celtic singer Connie Dover; and has opened for author Wendell Berry. Her recordings Blue Wild Indigo, "Canned Goods" and "Love Weather" are available on CD and cassette and by download. Sample her music at annzimmerman. Ann has been reviewed in the national Singer Magazine, featured on

Kansas Public Television and interviewed on a California podcast and Northern Ireland radio. Ann grew up in Salina, Kansas, singing folksongs with her family to the strums of her mother's autoharp. She has been an elementary teacher, a bank clerk, a plumbing catalog editor, an agricultural intern, a student and graduate of Harvard Law School, president of a Kansas environmental organization, and a long-time legal aid lawyer. She now lives near Salina on a horse-boarding farm and divides her time between legal mediation and music.
