This singer teaches folklore, so it's going to sound like folk music, but most of the lyrics and tunes are new and lean toward a sound echoing Odetta, Joan Baez, and jazz standards. 12 MP3 Songs FOLK: Modern Folk, EASY LISTENING: Soft Rock Details: Sandy Dolby teaches folklore at Indiana University, and she has been performing traditional folksongs for many years. This album combines eight original songs with some classic folk and popular songs. It was originally created as a memorial gift in honor of her mother. The selection titled The First One is a song written about her mother and provides one incentive behind the album. Other songs, such as the title song, When I Wanted Warm, The Last Time, or Since I've Dreamed, reflect on life experiences, both good and bad.
