If you are one of the millions of people who get an unexpected pink slip, the fact that you are getting laid off can be terrifying. It doesn't have to be that way, but many people don't prepare themselves for the eventuality of a career change and prefer instead to coast through life. When market forces or a major illness interrupt their career, they may have no idea how to start a new career. Lets be clear, you can switch into another career quickly, but not if you dont plan your strategies way ahead of time. Once the emergency hits, you wont have the calm head required to look at all your options objectively. So, dont wait until something happens to force you out of your career, be proactive and start looking at ways to manage a potential career change even if your job seems as secure as the rock of Gibraltar. 71 pages
