Details: The unique mix of Luke Concannons soulful vocals and John James Parkers beatboxing and double bass mastery is a euphoric sound that must be heard to be believed and this new material perfectly reflects the bands achingly personal and consciously political approach to songwriting. intense, angular and beautiful Colin Murray BBC Radio 1 In their own words We want to celebrate the music, creativity, activism and human spirit that is here. The spirit that embraces multiculturalism and protests war, the spirit that will tackle climate change, the spirit that gets up and dances, and the spirit that inspires us to rise up from our slumber and start building the world we want to see. Thats why we stay on our own family run Independent Record label - so we have the freedom to tell it like it is! This is a record saying: Lets get going, theres so much to do, why aren't we doing it? It's about the joy of beginning a love affair, taking a risk and hoping in an uncertain world. Something Nizlopi are not only very used to, but very good at too. monstrously melodic absolutely mesmerising musicweek Recorded straight to tape at Brixtons Dairy studio with Producer Phill Brown (of Island Records fame) at the helm, this fresh collection of songs, featuring inspiring collaborations and firmly rooted in the bands rich experience of playing live, signals the return of the musical revolution that is Nizlopi; masterfully transcending genres with soulful dexterity like never before.
