He has the potential to be a platinum artist. His R&B release entitled "Just To Love You" was definitely inspired by love past relationships, and a strong gospel influence. Along with his own unique style, he has been compared to singers such as Phillip Bailey, Prince, and Smokey Robinson just to name a few. A very smooth and firey singer, Bruce should be definitely included in your favorites. Bruce Pierre's "Just To Love You" project consist of Bruce Pierre singing all lead and background vocals and Edward Matthews aka Matt Bedzin (Producer) performing all musical tracks on all songs, except soprano sax on "My Love" and the guitar solo on "Looking For Your Love." A Louisiana native, Bruce began singing at the age of 13 and has performed in may gospel ensembles and R&B bands around his home state. He has also performed around the country with other artists, local and otherwise. He has also performed extensive studio work with local artists and some popular television shows in the New Orleans area, and major festivals. It was during that time he decided to develop his own project along with a good friend accomplished musician and producer, Edward Matthews. At this point, Bruce and Edward were on their way to creating countless works of musical passion and creative melodic songs that would soon become his signature. "Just To Love You" is already a favorite with all listeners young and old alike. With his firey and melodic vocals, you can look for more releases in the near future.
