"A singer whose devotion touches and inspires every heart. The Sufi way of enlightening ecstasy and inward change". 11 MP3 Songs SPIRITUAL: Mantras, NEW AGE: Yoga Details: Filled with the Spirit of the Highest Felix Maria Woschek, the musician who lives in Freiburg, as already produced and published his own small series of CDs which are without comparison if only on account of their appearance. In addition to this, there is a musical experience in store for the listener the sheer depth of which he or she can only perceive after listening to it for a number of times. Woschek defines himself as a multi-cultural artist; his music is intended to be a message of peace and testimony to the all-unity of mankind, Nature, and the cosmos. In his music he blends sacred songs from the world religions and presents them mainly in the so-called bhajan style. Woschek and his fellow-musicians regard their music as a bearer of light, love, and peace. The danger that the mantras presented here, which are after all meant to be recited inwardly, drift away into the banal area of kitsch, certainly does not exist in the case of the "Mystic Dance". "Mystic Dance" is borne along by the throbbing of the divine, and is in my opinion an important contribution to spiritual understanding between the peoples of the world. Woschek's latest CD, "Karuna", contains four longer pieces described as "Devotional Songs". One point deserving special mention is the collaboration of the world-famous Sultan Khan (vocal and sarangi), which inevitably gives "Karuna" an Indian touch. The four pieces are remarkably intensive and filled with the Spirit of the Highest. "Mystic Dance" and "Karuna" / Mathias Grassow (Esotera 3/96
