

German Annual Of Spatial Research And Policy 2010

DOWNLOAD HERE

1; Acknowledgement; 6 2; Contents; 7 3; Urban and Regional Resilience A New Catchword or a Consistent Concept for Research and Practice?; 14 3.1; Resilience Understanding Better How to Deal with Change?; 14 3.2; Resilience More than just a Dazzling Term?; 16 3.3; Dealing with Change in Germany Steps towards More Resilience?; 19 3.4; References; 23 4; Urban Resilience and New Institutional Theory A Happy Couple for Urban and Regional Studies?; 27 4.1; 1. Understanding Differences in Response to Urban Change; 27 4.2; 2. Understandings of Resilience; 28 4.3; 3. Urban Governance, New Institutionalism, and Urban Resilience; 30 4.4; 4. Urban Areas as Complex Adaptive Systems; 31 4.5; 5. Conclusions; 33 4.6; References; 35 5; Given the Complexity of Large Cities, Can Urban Resilience be Attained at All?; 37 5.1; 1. Introduction; 37 5.2; 2. Complexity of Large Cities; 37 5.2.1; 2.1 Characteristics of Complex Cities; 37 5.2.2; 2.2 Two Examples: Hamburg and Istanbul; 38 5.3; 3. Urban Resilience against the Background of various Concepts of Resilience; 39 5.4; 4. Urban Resilience in Complex Large Cities; 40 5.5; 5. Conclusion and Outlook; 42 5.6; References; 44 6; Rebuild the City! Towards Resource-efficient Urban Structures through the Use of Energy Concepts, Adaptation to Climate Change, and Land Use Management; 46 6.1; 1. The Challenge of Resource-efficient Urban Development; 46 6.2; 2. Energy-efficient Urban Development and Renewal; 49 6.3; 3. Urban Development Adapted to Climate Change; 51 6.4; 4. Resource-efficient Land Use Management with Site Recycling Management; 54 6.5; 5. Conclusion; 56 6.6; References; 58 7; Urban Restructuring Making More from Less ; 60 7.1; 1. Restructuring of Cities A Long-term Task; 60 7.1.1; 1.1 Rescuing the Older Neighborhoods An Urban Development Challenge in East and West; 60 7.1.2; 1.2 Urban Restructuring in the New Federal States Demolition and Enhancing Neighborhoods as a Dual Strategy; 61 7.1.3; 1.3 Urban Restructuring in the Old Federal States From Urban Renewal to Urban Restructuring; 61 7.1.4; 1.4 Pilot Projects in Western Germany A Reflection of Industries in a Global Crisis; 62 7.1.5; 1.5 New Challenges for Eastern and Western Germany; 63 7.2; 2. Interim Use; 63 7.2.1; 2.1 Interim Use as a Planning Strategy; 63 7.2.2; 2.2 Diversity of Sites and of Types of Interim Uses; 64 7.2.3; 2.3 Obstacles and Limitations to Interim Uses; 65 7.3; 3. Renaturation; 65 7.3.1; 3.1 Renaturation as a Forward Strategy; 65 7.3.2; 3.2 Revision of Traditional Patterns of Thinking; 66 7.3.3; 3.3 Renaturation as a

Logical Response to Shrinking;67 7.3.4;3.4 Renaturation With Tenacity and a Strategic Concept;67 7.4;4. Conclusion;68 7.5;References;69 8;Accommodating Creative Knowledge Workers? Empirical Evidence from Metropolises in Central and Eastern Europe;70 8.1;1. Challenging the Creative Paradigm in Central and Eastern European Metropolises An Outline;70 8.2;2. Definitions and Theoretical Assumptions;70 8.2.1;2.1 Defining Creative Industries;71 8.2.2;2.2 Creativity and its Pitfalls;71 8.2.3;2.3 The Geographies and Localities of the Creative Industries;72 8.3;3. Central and Eastern European Metropolitan Areas in Transition: Converging and Diverging Developments in Riga, Budapest, Poznan, and Leipzig;73 8.4;4. The Location Decisions of Creative and Knowledge Workers: Survey Results;74 8.5;5. Accommodating Creative Knowledge Workers? Concluding Statements;76 8.6;References;78 9;A Strategy for Dealing with Change: Regional Development in Switzerland in the Context of Social Capital;80 9.1;1. Introduction;80 9.2;2. The Implementation of Sustainability;81 9.3;3. Social Learning as a Tool;83 9.4;4. Learning Regions as a Path for Dealing with Change;84 9.5;5. An Empirical Survey of the Swiss Case;85 9.6;6. Conclusion;87 9.7;References;88 10;Path Dependency and Resilience The Example of Landscape Regions;90 10.1;1. Problem Statement;90 10.2;2. The Benefit of Linking Path Dependency and Resilience;90 10.2.1;2.1 The Epistemic Value of Theoretical Approaches to Path Dependence EAN/ISBN : 9783642127854 Publisher(s): Springer, Berlin Format: ePub/PDF Author(s): Müller, Bernhard

DOWNLOAD HERE

Similar manuals: