

Space In Languages Of China

DOWNLOAD HERE

Preface.- Introduction: How Chinese structures space by Dan Xu.- - Section A. Space: a Cross-linguistic Perspective Chinese Localizers: Diachrony and some Typological Considerations by Hilary Chappell and Alain Peyraube.- Syntax of Space across Chinese Dialects: Conspiring and Competing Principles and Factors by Danqing Liu.- The Linguistic Categorization of Deictic Direction in Chinese with Reference to Japanese by Christine Lamarre.- The Locative Words in the Waxiang Dialect Spoken in Guzhang, Hunan by Yunji Wu.- From Locative to Object Markers: the Parallel Development of two Postpositions in Bai by Jingqi Fu and Lin Xu.- The Role of Visual Space in Sign Language Development by Shun-chiu Yau.- - Section B. Space in Synchronic and Diachronic Chinese Asymmetry in the Expression of Space in Chinese the Chinese Language meets Typology by Dan Xu.- Two Conditions and Grammaticalization of the Chinese Locative by Chaofen Sun.- Origin and Evolution of the Locative term hu back in Chinese by Fuxiang Wu.- The Inessive Structure in Archaic and Medieval Chinese: an Evolutionary Study of Inessive Demonstrative uses from Archaic to Early Modern Chinese by Qingzhi Zhu and Wenjie Chen.- - Index.
EAN/ISBN : 9781402083211 Publisher(s): Springer Netherlands Format: ePub/PDF Author(s): Xu, Dan

DOWNLOAD HERE

Similar manuals:

Space In Languages Of China