Dracula music for cowboys. 7 MP3 Songs FOLK: Gentle, ROCK: Acoustic Details: There was a lot of loud cars driving by the studio creating all this low rumble all the time. I love that noise far away but I hate it when its close. It makes me all agitated and jumpy. I had this dream when I was a kid that loud cars would drive around the house and the headlights would be sweeping around in every window but the noise was so loud and then they would all drive away and rumble off into nothing. There was a race track about 3 miles from my parents house and the sound of loud motors was always in the air. During the summer, the wind would carry it in waves. so when i finished singing the song and a low rumble washed into the room and landed on the recording I was happy!!!! God, I love that noise. And crickets. I love crickets. They used to be so loud that they would wake me out of a heavy sleep. I tried to record them once and it did not work. I did manage to record a bunch of planes. They are similar to the car noise but not as strong. There seems to be so many planes up there that I'm immune to the sound. I do remember the 12th of September and the absence of any plane noises and not a vapor trail to be seen. Just silence that was almost impossible to comprehend, but silence is hard to understand anyway.
