Show all album songs: Tin-man Battalion Songs Details: Tin-Man is a project that is headed mainly by Paul Mathias. The project consists of various specialists not only with certain instruments, but fields of education. We plan to expand recordings beyond music and film. We plan to create buildings, inventions, medical treatments, and many other things bearing our name. We are not the re-initiators of industrial music. Their ideas and stylistic origins do interest us greatly though. We only use that word as an acknowledgment of their existence and relativity to our vision. Our sound is a ballad that continues through every album that is distributed. Each one is compiled of songs, poems, and images of triumphs and tragedies that have occurred throughout all known time. It is a combination of overdriven, reverberating symphonic/synthesized sounds to create the ambiance behind each story. When others listen to these sounds, we want them to have images generated in their minds along with our sound. Those who consider themselves followers of countercultural subcultures are not our target audience. The majority of them are no more than copycats and wholly active commercials of other companies and their ideas. We present ourselves as persons who are gradually liberating themselves from the material world and forming themselves into beings who refuse to be subordinated by parties supporting the destruction of natural powers. In time the artificial world will become obsolete in the years to come. This page will gradually become a very low source of obtaining our material. Our benefactors will find other ways of contacting us.
