Alvin Lloyd Masters recorded Silver Waters in 1988 in both Atlanta, Georgia and also San Francisco , California. It is being released for the first time in 2009 on compact disc with Blue Jay Music. It was very much influenced by the music of George Winston whose music made a great impression on the composer in the early 1980s. In fact , half the tracks were produced by Howard Johnston at the legendary Different Fur Recording Studios where George Winston recorded December and many of his best albums. Other early influences in this music were Richard Clayderman, Fresh Aire and the French music of Erik Satie. Neoclassical for the most part, the music is charming , well produced and very enjoyable to listen too. There is some use of classical titles, eg. animato, sonata, etc. and classical forms. Folk sounding at times as well. Only around 30 minutes in length and twelve tracks. A fascinating glimpse of some the composer's earliest works created while experiencing life challenges. This music is early in the career of the composer and is listed as bjm 002 , Blue Jay Music.
