Most music created now-a-days is a blend of various styles. In the case of "Invisible" John Craig have fused together elements of Pop, Rock, Jazz and Classical. It is very harmonious and soothing. 11 MP3 Songs URBAN/R&B: R&B Pop Crossover, EASY LISTENING: Love Songs Details: The Story: Craig was working in his home studio in Los Angeles in the summer of 2003, when John showed up to check out what Craig was up to. After listening to a couple of Craig's instrumental tracks John mentioned he had a song that Craig should check out. The next four minutes were the beginning of what would become "Invisible", Craig John's collaborative fusion of musical ideas. Craig was pretty much blown away when John started singing an acappella version of "In My Dreams", which was a song written by a friend of John's, Charles Miranda years before. Craig was so impressed by the song and John's ability to sing that he immediately dove in and created an epic arrangement without ever having heard any of the original chord progressions. It wasn't until Craig and John were finished with the track that Craig was able to hear Charles' original demo of voice and acoustic guitar. That was quite a listening experience. For the next three months Craig and John were in the studio day and night writing and recording. A typical night would be sitting outside by the pool with an ice-cold beer and plenty of paper. John would come up with a verse and Craig would immediately rush back into the studio and lay down a sequence using his preferred sequencer, Digital Performer. By the time Craig would return John would have the next verse or chorus and this process continued all summer. At one point Craig visited his hometown in Detroit Michigan and was inspired to write three songs on his own. John's performances of these is amazing. John is one of those rare performers that transcends the norm and can easily be compared with some of the greats. Craig is a multi-instrumentalist/producer who has worked professionally in the Los Angeles area for the past ten years. We hope you enjoy their CD release, "Invisible".
