Details: LENI is a Philadelphia-based sound artist also known as Kevin Lenihan. Kevin began exploring layering sound while a college DJ at WXYC in Chapel Hill, NC. He acquired a sequencer and effects and began to make his own experimental electronic music and collaborating with friends. Without a traditional musical background Leni takes influence from non-musical sources like photography as well as artists like Stars of the Lid, Lichens, Brian Eno, Thuja and Yellow Swans. In 2005 Leni's song Up and Over was featured on a compilation for the Broken Fader Cartel record label. After a year of living in Europe and studying experimental music, Kevin moved to Philadelphia. Leni released his first album Radical Party a collage of electronica, ambient, and noise music in 2007. The Sex Life of a Polyp (2009) is a collection of improvised ambient pieces.
