Friends, Family, and Funky Freaks got together in Studio 56 for a late night party full of merriment and mayhem. The funk was flying high and now you can catch some for yourself. Deep grooves and sexy vocals punctuate jamming improvisations that keep fans coming back for more. The highly danceable funk the band provides is a testimony to the live experience and is best enjoyed in the company of others. The Southern California-based foursome brings to mind bands such as Sly and the Family Stone and early 70s Grateful Dead with their organ-heavy funk, jazzy saxophone, ripping guitar and sensual vocals while still somehow pushing their sound in such a new direction it creates it's own category... THE NEW FUNK.
