Dodge City, Kansas native and current Greensboro, North Carolina resident Molly McGinns pedigree through her musical career has covered everything from jam-band to ska and reggae, so its not surprising MS. McGinns take on Americana, Girl with Slingshot utilizes these influences in a recipe that works to great and surprising effect. Ms. McGinn is a vocalist with a style that is an equal blend of cool urbanite and earnestly sincere Southern girl. An example of the former is exhibited in the first cut Kill Devil Hills, a smooth folk-jazz snapshot of life which is delivered with a hep scat-like staccato and cloaked in a reverb drenched vibe. The latter comes though in the lovely slide guitar paired gospel-country tune Preacher and Thieves which is a song that would have easily for in Neko Cases earlier Southern-gothic catalog.
