This music makes you dance AND think. Its high energy matches the attitude of kids; its positive message reinforces the values of parents. This is a win/win situation for our families. The songs never sound preachy, just fun - and very contemporary. Having recorded and performed live since 1985 with a variety of reggae, R&B, rock and world music bands, Thomas Vinton brings his extensive experience into the realm of family entertainment. His current project began as a solo act in 2002. Based in Austin, Texas at the time, Nommi quickly grew into a full band extravaganza, complete with an energetic stage show that brought dozens of families together on a regular basis. Favorite Nommi venues in Austin have included: Ruta Maya World Headquarters, Austin Children's Museum, Book People, St. Edward's University, KUT-FM and the Austin Music Network. While performing shows with the Nommi band, Thomas Vinton also cultivated his mission to educate young aspiring artists by developing an after-school songwriting workshop. Recognizing the need to introduce this phenomenon to a wider audience, Thomas Vinton relocated with his family to Atlanta in January of 2004. Given its 4+ million population, unstoppable music industry and thriving broadcast opportunities, this metro area promises to be fruitful territory for future Nommi offerings.
