

Mp3 Project:bluebook - Obligatory

An album from a band that fuses classical, electronic, dance and some right proper beats into a sound that is vast and cinematic in quality. some have said. 17 MP3 Songs in this album (94:46) ! Related styles: ELECTRONIC: Electronica, ELECTRONIC: Dance People who are interested in Moby Pet Shop Boys Jean Michel Jarre should consider this download. Details: This is the first long play, album release from project:bluebook... well the first official one anyway. There is an immense back catalog of work that may one day see the light... it depends if I run out of inspiration or can't be bothered to write any new stuff in the future. The album features a somewhat un-classifiable and rather eclectic mix of music, some of the songs based in pure dance and some based in a hybrid of clasical, jazz, pop, dance and electronica. If you want to listen to something unique that will transport you to a place where musical constraints are ignored and traditional songwriting and arrangements are discarded, you can't go to a better destination than project:bluebook's 'obligatory', even if I do say so myself. My own personal favourites are 'greatness' and 'reassurance', although the other eight are brilliant..... In addition to the ten new songs included on this release, both the digital version and the cd copy feature remastered versions of the full releases of the 'theme' and 'bootleg' singles. The production techniques employed on the original versions lacked a little oomph, which has now been corrected. If you purchase the cd copy, these extra tracks are free, if you purchase digitally, then it will be dependant on your chosen store. As I said, this is the first long play collection of work officially released for purchase by project:bluebook and I look forward to you enjoying this release and providing you with many more. Just a final word, listening to this album and then buying it is not optional, it is..... well you understand
