Sean Mormelo is a Troubadour in the classic sense of the word. After questioning his true direction, Sean has finally come to understand and embrace his musical destiny. Living and breathing music 24/7, his craving for adventure, travel and meeting new people, and the inability to focus on anything but music, has lead Sean to embark on his current path. The upcoming release of his 2nd solo CD, "Troubadour", kicks off a new and exciting chapter. in which Sean will be hitting the road full time to focus on playing Colleges, Festivals, Music Conferences, and clubs across the country. Sean's live performances are where his incredible talent surpasses the myriad of other solo singer songwriters. His guitar playing is accomplished and rich, and his expressive vocal range soars from a low growl to a piercing high tenor. With these versatile skills, Sean can sing and play anything from very intricate Dave Matthews style acoustic with complex bluesy vocal riffing on top, to SRV style Texas Blues, to expressive finger style, or subtle beautifully melodic voicings. You just have to see a show to experience the depth of his skills as a solo performer. Sean is also an accomplished Multi-instrumentalist equally adept on acoustic, electric, Bass guitar, keys, percussion, and harmonica. Known as a harmony God Sean gracefully covers all areas of vocal arranging and singing including lead, harmony, and backup vocals. In addition to musicianship, Sean is also a skilled recording engineer and producer and he continues to produce and recorded a number of other Singer-Songwriters through the company he co-founded, Full Refusal Music Group. Sean's first Solo CD "Real", was released in 2002 to rave reviews and impressive sales. Events that coincided with the release of "Real" are in May 4 th 2002 the Sean Mormelo Band took the Stage at Sunfest in West Palm Beach, Florida to open for Edgar Winter. Other accomplishments include showcasing slots at the 2002 Nashville New Music Conference(2NMC) the USA Songwriting Competition. Sean also participated in the groundbreaking first year of Tourbaby, a showcase sponsored by CDBABY.COM and Discmakers. Born in New Jersey, raised in Florida, and currently residing in Alaska, Sean has performed in countless venues across North America winning legions of fans from Alaska to Mexico. He currently performs 3-5 nights a week in the Anchorage area, and will begin booking this summer for a cross country tour. Catch him in the small clubs while you can, Sean is on his way.

Facts about Sean: Loves his co-dependant cats, unbearably misses his friends and family, rarely watches TV but is curiously addicted to the Weather Channel, is a computer geek and gearhead, spends many hours a day online and has withdrawals if disconnected, is a budding web designer, graphic designer, video editor, and slave to digital media.
