From the early school gigs to the big open airs, they've played more concerts than any other local band before and released 6 albums in a decade, each of them unique in its genre and influences, thus forging a personal and recognisable T42 sound... and becoming a great live band (opening for Bon Jovi, Bryan Adams, Ezio, Mike the Mechanics, Fish...). T42 have a lot to give, not only on stage. The release of "hopeless romantic folk circus" celebrates their 10th anniversary and delivers a great collection of their biggest hits as well as new songs, live recordings and rare material. If you had to give musical references about this band, you'd probably say: T42 are where the Counting Crows and the Waterboys meet. Folk, pop rock in a beautiful catchy combination. Their lyrics tell little stories about everyday life love. As the T42 singer John Rech likes to say: All in all, we're just thieves with an artistic gift that helps us capturing the world around us and squeeze it in little songs. Share the beautiful and sometimes sad world of T42 and be part of this musical journey that invites you to dancing and sing along... and sometimes to miss your loved one.
