The project, which took twenty years to create, eventually developed into a mini musical. Come with me on a musical journey that includes rap, funk, R&B, rock, blues and jazz. Rappin Jack Our hero, Rappin Jack, introduces himself as a singer songwriter. An alluring female voice closes the song. Stand! Jack meets an old friend, Jimi the Snake. This mysterious lady joins in to sing some Sly and the Family Stone. Wild Funky Freddy Later on, Jack goes out and raps about an old colleague. Thank You (falletin me be mice elf agin) As luck would have it, Jack meets Jimi and the newcomer to sing some more Sly and the Family Stone. Get Down Having eyed the situation carefully, Jack approaches the female with caution. Jimi the Snake Jimi advises Jack that his fantasy girl is playing hard to get. Come On Over Not one to give up, Jack approaches the female once again. Tell Me What You Want A question answer dialogue now ensues. Just Think About It (that's all that I'm askin) The discussion continues as the guitar and saxophone mimic the conversation. I'm Feeling Funky The two go out and decide to shake things up a bit. Cool Down As the dialogue resolves itself, Jack ponders where his journey will lead him next.
