Testimonial: In October my Dalmatian puppy, Holly of just 9 months, was hit by a Nissan Truck. She broke her legs, pelvis and dislocated her spine as well as being badly scarred. The vets didnt even think it was worth washing her as they were sure she would have to be put down. Laying in her bed we played her your Pet Healing CD. The next day the vets couldnt believe her determination to get better and so washed her and bandaged her legs. A week later the vets were calling her the Miracle Dog and were bringing in specialists to work on her as she was such a happy puppy who seemed to have a willpower to heal. We continued to play the Pet Healing CD to Holly every evening and sometimes during the day when she was feeling restless. Now Six weeks later she is walking, wagging her tail again and on the path to being our happy puppy again. Thanking you from the bottom of my heart, Lauren xx

Effects of Music on Pets and also Humans These CDs do not contain verbal hypnosis, although the frequencies and sounds contained therein, will place the animal into a deepened state of relaxation. Whilst in such a state it has been proven in humans and animals alike, the immense positive benefits including significant improvements in stress reduction, anxiety issues, improved sleeping patterns and even physical manifestations such as helping prevent and overcome illnesses and certain afflictions are activated. It is now commonly acknowledged that our pets suffer from the same emotional issues as humans especially including stress and anxiety, and the effects of these can lead to the manifestation of a wide variety of physical problems including cancers, tumors and other terminal illnesses. With the high cost of veterinarians and other cures to help our animals once they become sick and not to mention the obvious pain and discomfort for the animal, it makes perfect sense to focus on prevention for these afflictions rather than the cure. The physical and emotional composition and traits of animals is actually quite similar to humans as proven by a multitude of scientific reports. In saying this, the healing and prevention properties of the correct choice of sounds and music is fast becoming evident through modern science. One such report conducted by the University of Maryland Medical Center, presented at the Scientific Sessions of the American Heart Association, on November 11, 2008, in New Orleans found a distinct relationship between sounds and blood flow in humans: Music, selected by study participants because it made them feel good and brought them a sense of joy, caused tissue in the inner lining of blood vessels to dilate (or expand) in order to increase blood flow. Compared to baseline, the average upper arm blood vessel diameter increased 26 percent after the joyful music phase, while listening to music that caused anxiety narrowed blood vessels by six percent. By taking these realisations and developing a highly specific combination of sounds contained on the CDs, pets and owners alike will experience numerous positive benefits. With particular emphasis on the Pet Healing CD, we have taken the research proving another distinct relationship between improving the rate and ability to activate the healing mechanisms prevalent within every animal and human whilst experiencing deepened levels of consciousness and deep relaxation (delta and also theta realms). Hypnotic techniques and relaxing music are commonly accepted as the most effective means to enter into such a state of mind where the body will repair itself at a heightened rate, forming the focus for the composition of this CD to actively encourage this transformation. The same principles also have the obvious added benefit that when performed correctly as on these CDs, any animal will instantly become calm.
