Heterodox records brings you it's second LP: a dynamic journey of classic IDM goodness. 15 MP3 Songs
ELECTRONIC: Ambient, ELECTRONIC: Experimental Details: U have a screwdriver I have a flyswatter
This album was created in a brainstorm single-night recording session. Ramon Mills founder, owner and mover shaker of Heterodox Records called Jeremy Turon and asked "Where is the album you promised me 3 months ago?" Jeremy Turon responded with "Well I am working on this concept and it is very elusive you see...." Ramon sighed. "So you're telling me you have over 300 tracks and you can't get me one album?" Procrastination had taken its toll. Jeremy then determined to produce an album by the end of a night. He grabbed a handful of psychedelic records a box full of old four-track recordings from the past decade and opened the frustrating library of 300 mp3's that he and Aaron Turon had created over the past six years. He decided that he wanted the track play list to have the same energy and flow of a classic rock album. He also wanted the precision of digital computer sequencing but the warmth of the old analog style. So the track list was chosen, and then every song was re rendered or recorded through a variety of means to flux the sound in an old-yet-new way. 24 hours later, a very user-friendly, psychedelic, IDM, ambient-electro album was born.
