Comforting and healing to the spirit are words often used to describe his music. New Dream is a themed compilation about finding hope in the adversities and brokenness of our human condition. I Will Respond, for example, a song about September 11th, uses three verses to describe the experiences of three individuals who were directly impacted by the events of that day; namely, an investment banker located high up in one of the towers, a fireman who responded to the call of duty, and a Franciscan minister who took the place of Rev. Michael Judge, who perished at the site. The song finds redemption in the face of seeming hopelessness. Also check out Jonah, a riveting poetic ballad that will keep you on the edge of your seat, as well as Love Found You, with its haunting Indian-Celtic riffs and melt-away chorus. Dom is a troubadour who has traveled widely, playing and singing in churches throughout the U.S., India, Taiwan and Israel, as well as varied venues from the Bowery Mission to The Yale Club in Manhattan. He has played and shared at coffee houses, juvenile homes, retreats, housing projects and even open-air evangelistic campaigns in Washington Square and Tompkins Square Parks in New York City, as well as the Lillenas Music and Drama Conference in Kansas City. He can be spotted at many venues in the northern suburbs of New York City, including various coffeehouses and cafes. He also leads the music on Sundays at Westchester Chapel, in White Plains, NY.
