In Felishas heart there isnt! Felisha Newfarmer, born in 1984 as the only child of a salesman and a housewife, has an emotional soul that cannot help following her heart. So she dared to do the splits between studying natural science and realizing her dearest dream: she introduces herself to the world with her debut album When feelings implode. She started writing poems at the age of seven. The importance of just a piece of paper and a pencil hasnt faded until now. Besides she started drawing, then painting in oils and dancing "" still always coming back to writing. She also learned to play the piano and additionally spent some time on experimenting with a keyboard. After some weeks of writing poems "" one night in November 2002 on a drive back home her Dad suggested: Why dont you set your poems to music?. No idea why not "" and from that night on Felisha did. In the following years she wrote songs and started programming music on computers, to create a sound due to the message of the songs. Suffering from the arbitrariness in school and her deep love for creativity made her turn to natural science. She learned to separate studies and music. In a certain way natural science guarantees a right or wrong. Words and music aint meant to be right or wrong, they are a matter of taste that responds to the emotion one gets in a certain situation, a certain experience in life. Felisha writes about her own experiences in life and for her the ability to have emotions makes a human heart and soul. In When feelings implode she brings across this message: I just love the deal that I feel. Full of spirit and life she could reach Wally Warnings heart to appear as an artist on her album. They directly connected on the spiritual level they share and now its out "" the completely self-written (all lyrics and music) and self-arranged album by Felisha Newfarmer. She is the thoughtful girl, the moody young lady, the self-confident woman and the human being like you and me, who has a dream still trying to realize and live it! A fighter, craving for love! She now pushes the limits with her first single You're free. It is her first message to praise everyone's freedom, and if you live your freedom you will always stay true to yourself!
