New wave jazz. Virtuoso acoustic guitar mixed with heavy beats and electronic effects. Exciting with lots of variety. 10 MP3 Songs JAZZ: Jazz Fusion, ELECTRONIC: Techno Details: John Daniel Winters is a 25-year-old guitarist from Issaquah, Washington. His live performances are slightly different from the studio recordings, but both exploit technology to create textures of large and small ensembles within varied genres. John has been playing music for most of his life, starting with leisurely playing of the guitar at age 3. Classical violin studies began at age 11 with intensive study of guitar from age 15. After high school, he attended Bellevue Community College and later transferred to Wake Forest University. He finished up there in 2005 and began his pursuit of a music career track. John currently resides in North Carolina. He uses a slew of equipment to record and perform; always compiling more, to constantly and dependably muscle, push and intensify the degrees of virtuosity in his recordings and performances. Additional music, photos and information about upcoming shows are available at johnwinters.biz and myspace.com/johnwinters PS: After listening to 2-minute samples here, if you want to buy individual tracks of Delirium Road, go to iTunes, Napster, AOL MusicNow, Sony Connect, Bitmunk, mp3-extension or iSound for the digital downloads. FYI, iSound streams the entire tracks for listening, not just short samples. - Esoteric Productions, Seattle WA
