thirty-three years later with an ever growing passion for music. an artist in the true sense, this passion does not stop with just music but extends to painting, drawing, designing and building woodworks as well but my writing and the creation of music will always be my first love. i came from a musical family, where many if not all of them have in some aspect been affiliated with music. along with these home-based influences there were the international artist such as, earth wind and fire, boyz to men, stevie wonder and brian mcknight. my musical experience was first explored singing with the five member accap pella group l.i.g.h.t. "living in great harmony together". we started making guest appearances at school shows and other community concerts. the barbados song contest was the first major competition where we sang the song "people" written by myself and arranged by john roett. the group has since parted and remaining are myself and rodney small forming the duo r&g. we have just completed the recording of our first cd "a love to remember".

r&g q&a q: who would you say gave you the push to get started on the project or with music altogether? a: r&g. a local broadcaster and member of madd entertainment kevin hinds gave the first push to take music seriously and encouraged us to go into the studio so we could work on the project "a love to remember".

q: did you ever think you would have this cd? a: r&g. honestly the answer to that would be no, this project took (5) five years to put together and that in it-self would discourage most people.

q: how would you describe the album? a: r&g. the album is "the handbook for lovers, an investment in your romantic future" a cd everyone should have in there collection.

q: have you reached your peak, if not, where would you like to go from here? a: r&g. no, we have not because creativity has no limit and we would like to go as far as possible or as far as our talent will take us. we are also establishing ourselves as songwriters for other artist.

q: what advise would you give to someone who would like to enter the music industry? a: r&g. you must be prepared to work hard first and foremost, love what you are doing and be true to yourself ,don't try to be like someone else. hard work and being who we are is what got us to this point. all we can be is r&g.
