As a child Vincent had a big imagination and wrote stories at an early age. In college he wrote the story which he turne into an animated movie, "The Fall of Telgar." Vincent learned to play paino at 8 but didn't paly much until about 15 years ago. In 2002 he began to compose music and the album "Fairy Kingdom" was produced. "Fairy Kingdom" is an instrumental work, but has a story behind it and as you might guess from the title the story is about a magical kingdom. "Fairy Kingdom" story line is as follows: In the intro scene you feel the beauty and wonder of the magical kingdom. In the Fairy Castle the fairies frolic and dance in the ball room. The courtiers of the Fairy King appear and prepare the crowd for the appearance of the Fairy King and Queen. The infant fairies dance before the throne of the King and Queen before the entrance of the King and Queen. "Stillness" and the song, "Echoes" reverberate soft tones throughout the immense castle. Then suddenly the King and Queen appear! "Fairy Dust" fly as the infant fairies fly towards the King and Queen and bow. A beautiful "Interlude" song between the main scenes. "A Day in Fairy Land," We see the young prince and princess enjoy an enchanted day in the Fairy Kingdom. The older fairies remember "A Time Gone By." Then the lovely "Love Theme." The young prince and princess embrace and dance in the huge ball room surrounded by their loved ones and friends. Suddenly the Dark Fairy appears! The evil fairy approaches the throne and demands the hand of the beautiful young princess or he will attack the kingdom! The King, Queen and the Prince all strongly refuse! The Dark Fairy dances his dance of death trying to persuade the King to reconsider his offer, but to no avail. The King and Queen order the Dark Fairy to leave and he leaves as quickly as he appears. "Heralding the Darkness: Battle with the Dark Fairy." The Dark fairy returns to his castle and with a group of his minions gather in a dark cave to prepare for war. The Dark Fairy meets the loyal followers of the King and Queen and the battle begins! The battle continues until the morning light. The Dark Fairy is finally defeated and is sent into exile. In the ending scene you see the young Prince and Princess holding hands and embracing with a kiss as they fly into the lovely morning sky to enjoy another day in the magical Fairy Kingdom.
