The CD available on this page, "Live at the Museum", was recorded live in concert in June 1998 at the Paterson Museum in New Jersey with Harry on piano, Dave Edwards on electric and acoustic bass, and Vince Ector on drums. The CD was recorded and engineered by Joe Maggelet. Born and raised in St. Louis, MO, Harry was active in the midwest music scene from the ages of 15 to 18. He then moved to Boston, enrolling at Berklee College of Music, and performing with his own band at Boston area venues. In addition, he studied briefly at The Creative Music Studio near Woodstock, NY. His most notable music teachers have included Ken Palmer, Mike Gibbs, Pat Metheny, Jack DeJohnette, Dave Holland, Lyle Mays and Mike LeDonne. Miller has released four recordings under his own name: "Open House" (out of print), "Paradox Fossils", "Live at the Museum" and the latest, "Jazz Beauty Supply". All of the recordings feature Harry's original compositions. A partial list of musicians Miller has performed or recorded with include: Greg Osby, Ralph Moore, Jean Toussaint, Mike Stern, Jeff "Tain" Watts, Jerome Harris, Arto Tunçboyacıyan, Slide Hampton, Ted Curson, Paul Motian, Phoebe Snow, Michael Urbaniak, Jeff Andrews, Cindy Blackman, DK Dyson, Allan Zavod, Jody Espina, Avi Bortnick, Terri Lyne Carrington, Ashford Simpson, Quincy Jones, Maynard Ferguson, and BB Winans. Harry resides at an artists housing complex in New York City. He enjoys practicing piano, composing, meditation, Eastern philosophy, exercise, travel, nature, taking photographs, and visiting museums.
