A lo-fi spoken word CD from an emerging, young spoken word artist. 18 MP3 Songs SPOKEN WORD: Poetry, SPOKEN WORD: Audiobook Details: 1 of 29: A lo-fi spoken word CD from an emerging, young poet (and spoken word artist). Joseph Kerschbaum's first spoken word CD is subtle and stark but yet touching introduction to his work. This disk ranges from quiet, personal introspections where words almost aren't sufficient to encompass what needs to be said -- to dark, abstract worlds conjured by alienation and inability to get anything right. '1 of 29' is a collection of new, unpublished poems mixed with a number of poems from Joseph's first full-length collection of poetry 'The Human Remains'. '1 of 29' will leave you chilled to the bone but with a warm heart. About Joseph Kerschbaum: Joseph Kerschbaum is a promising new poet on the performance and spoken word scene. In November, 2002 Joseph's first full-length book of poems, 'The Human Remains', was released ('The Human Remains' is available at your local bookstore and on-line at amazon.com, bn.com, alibris.com, and 1stbooks.com). Joseph has read and performed his works around the country. Currently Joseph works for a publishing company and he lives in Bloomington, Indiana. In August, 2004, Joseph published his second collection of poems, 'The Composer Steps into the Fire.' And in 2006 his new book, 'Dead Stars Have No Graves' will be published by Pathwise Press.
