rock n'roll, acoustic jamboree, a little electronics, creative production and diverse instrumentation for the discriminating, fun-loving kid of any age. 13 MP3 Songs KIDS/FAMILY: General Children's Music, POP: with Live-band Production Details: Hoi Polloi, the second CD from Dog on Fleas, is a joyous romp through songs about pie, clouds, the dangers of parking lots, and what monkeys think about people. Fiddles, horns, guitars, car horns, percussion, and ecstatic singing abound. The CD kicks off with Blueberry Pie, a rowdy ode to flavors with a full horn section and a sweet-toothed chorus. Fiddle, peddle steel, twangy guitars and down-home singing adorn the Addage Song Clouds has a soothing, almost tropical feel propelled by upright bass, autoharp and Latin percussion. And Rowboat makes use of electronic drums, effected saxophone and guitars, and weird, swirling voices to compliment this conundrum of a song. In Yonderland, we hear about a place where all the people are made of rubber bands and everything else is made from tin cans - is the grass always greener somewhere else? For Goodnight Fudge, a young boy bids adieu to his most prized possessions before heading off to bed. "This is a hip, fun, kid-friendly album your won't mind listening to on the way to the beach. There's a real Jonathon Richman quirky-type sense to songs...This band has a strange approach to music, with lots of interesting sounds and playful production designed to delight their audience." Kathy O'Connell, Metrokids Sound Off There is something here to make both kids and adults laugh and there's also something here to touch every listener's heart. Ulster Publishing's Almanac "Dog on Fleas doesn't pander to children. It treats kids as sensible, thinking creatures that can make logical leaps in song." Chronogram magazine
