Whilst the more critical viewers may find that the satellite TV on pc service doesn't bring promise of endless quality, there's no denying that for the average TV viewer who is looking for a much wider choice of TV channels without having to sign a contract, or pay out hundreds of dollars to watch some TV at night, can't really go wrong with this service. Yes, the software takes up space on your PC and no, this is not quite as good as the traditional satellite TV services, but it sure is a way to cut back costs without having to kiss goodbye to some armchair entertainment after a hard day's work. The Satellite TV for PC service is the longest running and best selling version amongst this latest phenomenon of being able to watch satellite TV from your computer. And whilst they certainly don't get any prizes for website design or user friendliness, if you're looking to save a few hundred dollars in set up fees, plus a fair amount of monthly cash on stuff that you don't really watch, then this might just be a better way to compliment your popcorn and pizza on a Friday night and with the amount of cash you'll save using this alternative, you can make that a large pizza and box of popcorn too.
