Take the chance. In many ways, Ronda has been doing that since her hands first touched the piano as a child. It never occurred to her to play only what was written. The tunes and words that continue to dance in her head have found expression, growing from the classical world through many other influences. Her interest in the guitar also began at an early age--Mozart and Chopin met Bob Dylan and Simon and Garfunkel! The First Seven begins to document the journey inspired by family, friends and life. She steps beyond the stage of her youth and the coffeehouses of her current performances, charting her path as wordsmith. Her guitars, harmonicas and voice continue to inspire and motivate.
