Details: I've always had a love of playing and making music, beginning from the first time I played an instrument in grade school, through my years of military service up until today. I had to tuck away that desire and passion for making music for 20 years while tending to family and service life. I retired and quickly dove back into it and am still trying to learn and advance in this business. I do this because I love it and like to know that other people like what I do. Currently I live and work in Kansas City, Missouri.
