Modern take on troubadour soul music. 10 MP3 Songs FOLK: Urban Folk, FOLK: Traditional Folk Show all album songs: One track mind Songs Details: I believe music can change humanity's mind. Even the grasshopper and the wolf band together and harmonize in chorus. Like a lone cricket, always with an instrument. Through the grass I feel the vibration of other singers and songs. With their inspiration, a journey has begun. Carrying only a guitar and my throat, I bring a one track mind. Don't be fooled, it changes all the time. Flowing through the positive teachings of Marley, Marvin, Lennon and Hunter, now the table has turned. I'm teaching what I've learned: We can all change. But we need others to understand. Your love has always been right. I could walk on water for you. For I feel unstoppable. Life is hard. I have made the wrong decisions. But some things are sublime. If only I'd see you again. I wouldn't hesitate. Living is the thought on one track mind. In the night air the rhythm and blues. The Nyabinghi reggae moves, the folk and funky grooves. Hunts a troubadour, wailing his spiritual songs to soothe the souls of those who feel they are alone. "You aren't the only one. Come and see." Life can be happy. Though he does not claim to have the key, understanding he can destroy the locks and overcome poverty, he believes in something smaller than an omnipotent god: humanity. Still, it is so hard to grasp what is needed completely. The minstrel sings of empathy, tries to stay in harmony with the cosmic stories. If you carry the least bit of sympathy, then listen. Hear and speak to others. Love your sisters and brothers. Andrew Deetz
