His is a sound so captivating that he completely mesmerizes listeners. Bands and vocalists of all kinds call upon his talents to enrich their sound. Soon, he becomes a household name all over the music scene. His name? Darryl but everyone calls him (the) flute man. And hes not some figment of your imagination. Hes right here charming the pants off audiences all over the place. Darryls entrance to the world of music began at eight years of age. Born and raised in the housing projects of the South Bronx, Darryls parents saw music as a good distraction from the lures of the streets. He soon fell in love with music, beginning with classical music. Darryl found himself the center of attention at various musical events, and was highly sought after for featured and ensemble performances. Darryls musical interests continued to expand through his early teens, and included gospel, blues, and funk. Football and bodybuilding began to consume most of his time into his twenties. Once Darryl made up his mind to return to his love of music, everyone took notice. The musical style of Darryl the flute man is truly original; combining the genres of jazz, classical, and gospel music. He calls his style Instrumental Soul. Darryl insists that hes a soul singer who cant sing, and expresses his emotions through his flute. The journey of the flute man has brought him to performances stages at Carnegie Hall, the Apollo Theater, and the Providence Performing Arts Center. Darryl has wowed audiences with names like Jeffrey Osbourne, Grover Washington, Jr., Toke the Crooner, Java, and Mocha Brown. Otherwise, you can find the flute man dazzling folks with the G4 Band. With this league of extraordinary musicians, the flute man has the ability to cast his musical spell over a grand cross-section of people. Nothing like the flute man and a glass of wine, its been said. When Darryl plays, its like angels are singing, another fan contends. Want jazz? Hes got that. Need some soul? Of course. Craving ballads? Got that too. The superman of Instrumental Soul has come to rescue you from the doldrums of boring music. Darryl the flute man is only a call away.
