Details: "I was always motivated by the great movie-makers whenever I was composing music. This time though, I decided to motivate them." With such daring motto, this album features 11 original soundtrack compositions by Joon-hyung Park that were previously only available to Hollywood insiders. He promises that listeners would experience vivid imagination of certain scenes as if they were watching a movie simply by listening to this album. Featuring different genres of movies for each individual track, this CD covers various movie themes such as Spy (Espionage), Horror (The Whisper of Incubus), Fantasy (Waltz Diabolico), and even Country (Jessie's Blues). Joon-hyung Park's music style is reminiscent of soundtracks from the golden era of the past when strong melodic line took precedence over overbearing percussions or artificial sound effects. He believes that a good soundtrack should be strong enough on its melody to instantly remind the listeners of the movie for which it was written. The 47th Annual Grammy Award Winner, David Russell, describes Joon-hyung Park's music as "having a beautiful melodic line and a skillful harmonization with shining inspiration." Also, as a classical composition and classical guitar major from the University of Washington and Cornish College of the Arts, he personally selected a rare collection of 5 solo classical guitar renditions of famous tunes including those by Beatles, Henry Mancini, and Astor Piazzolla.
