Based in Washington DC, Cedars is a band that came together based on an affinity for melodic, ambient rock; the band has billed with acts such as Editors, Stellastarr*, and the French Kicks, and is often compared to Doves, Elbow, and U2. 7 MP3 Songs POP: British Pop, ELECTRONIC: Ambient Details: Cedars is a band from Washington D.C. that formed in the beginning of 2004. They came together based on a shared affinity for more melodic and atmospheric music, similar to bands like Doves, Elbow, The Cure, and U2. The band consists of four members: Brian Leatherman (vocals, guitar), Luke Mangels (keys, guitar), Francisco Fico Lazzaro (bass guitar), and Ed Barnabas (drums). The band met each other through various means, either through long standing friendships or answering ads to form a band. Either way, from the first note they played together, they realized they had a musical bond. The band originally went by the name of Cartel, but after much deliberation and knowing that the music was their priority, not legal conflict, they changed their name to Cedars. In the short history of Cedars, the band has built an impressive resume, gaining more and more recognition at each step. With the lineup established in 2004, they recorded their first EP, Safety in Numbers. From this EP, a single (featuring Fleets) was released in the UK by Bracken Records. Fleets went on a successful run, selling out in many stores and gaining UK airplay. Through the EP and their hard work, the band received positive press (Under the Radar, Record Collector, Washington Post, Popmatters), radio airplay (WOXY.com, XM Radio, 3WK, and college radio), growing buzz, and word of mouth both here and in the UK. Cedars has also shared the stage with bands such as Stellastarr, Editors, Giant Drag, Lake Trout, The French Kicks, and Augustana. Cedars has recently completed their second EP, Another Season. The EP was recorded with TJ Lipple (Aloha) and Chad Clarke (Beauty Pill) at Silver Sonya studios. Another Season is a mature recording with the band becoming better songwriters and performers. With this new offering, past accomplishments, growth in stature and confidence, and a busy 2006, the future looks bright for this young band.
