WORLD: World Fusion, WORLD: Caribbean Details: Corey Wallace a.k.a Coreysan has been involved in music since 1987. This self-taught musicians musical explorations are as diverse as Trinidad and Tobago, the country from which he comes. As a Trinidadian musician/artiste, observing his global/universal nature, Coreysan continues to expand upon the scope of multicultural influences available in the Caribbean combined with the musical culture of both the modern and old worlds, resulting in new musical and artistic flavours for the world to savour. He creates music that reaches out to all walks of life, conjuring different ways of projecting a universal message that is mysterious and adventurous, yet digestible by all. His thought provoking themes are spiritual without any rigid religious ties or dogma, exploring human emotions and relations with each other and with the Universe. This is complemented by the fusion of live and electronic elements that find a common ground in his music. From underground and well known Trinidadian artistes and bands, to recent international collaborations with artistes such as Remo Fernandes (India) and Alonestar (England), Coreysans present project is a direct amalgamation of the inspiration gathered from his multicultural musical adventures. While performing in the band, Mungal Patasar and Pantar (IndoJazz Caribbean Fusion) as a bassist, Coreysan had the opportunity to tour and perform at Montreux Jazz (Switzerland), Caribbean Roots (Lincoln Center, New York) and at a number of music festivals in France and in the Caribbean. Today, Coreysan continues to produce, arrange, record and master his works and various other projects from Khongharhee studios, his bedroom studio in Tacarigua, Trinidad.
