Details: The Flying Devas Band were first heard live on Roseanne Barr's webcast show and have now recorded this, their first full length album. It's folk pop, with a slice of rock, but is spiritual too - this is music which means something. The Flying Devas Band have their own style, mixing 12-string acoustic and electric guitar with passionate vocals and personal lyrics. All the tracks are original. "I try to write songs which truly say something about how I feel. My biggest ambition is for these songs to be heard because I believe they have an important message. I really identify with the dispossessed - we're all out there, trying to lead our lives the best we can. Everyone has a life they are leading." Stuart MacRae
