Believing he couldn't "sing", Andrew decided that he would take up playing music and taught himself how to play the guitar at age 13. Not long after, Andrew realized he liked the deep tones of the bass guitar (especially Queen's "Another One Bites the Dust"). On his 14th birthday he received a bass and amp. Before he knew it, he was playing cover songs of his favorite 80s bands. In his early 20s, Andrew began writing his own music and playing with a band, that he won't name now, but describes as "psychedelic funk-punk." Living the life of a musician in a college town was beginning to take it's toll on Andrew, and as the days passed, life became more gray. Andrew quickly began to realize that he was going nowhere and it was time to come to terms with his childhood and adolescent experiences. So, Andrew stepped into the Religious Science Spiritual Enrichment Center in Chico, CA. and discovered a new path..."change your thoughts, change your life." Andrew began his inner journey of examining his past. Facing his self-worth beliefs, that grew from a traumatic childhood and painful adult relationships, Andrew evaluated his choices, his thoughts of worthiness, and renewed his life's intention. Most importantly, Andrew recognized that something beautiful was ready to be born and allowed his true creative musical talents to manifest. Andrew entered the Spiritual Enrichment Center's 1st Annual Talent Show. Casting aside the old limiting beliefs that had been instilled by others' words of unworthiness, Andrew reclaimed his personal power and decided to SING and play one of his original songs and music. He started his performance by stating, "This is a new place for me. This is my gift to you." His performance ended with a standing ovation...Andrew knew that music was his spiritual destiny and it was his purpose to write, sing, and play his music for himself and to inspire others. He also realized that the wisdom from his life's experiences led him to this place, this moment of freedom. Living his dream of writing, singing, and playing music, Andrew has recorded his first CD and will be performing at churches and new thought conferences and workshops in the Western US. He is an active member at the Religious Science Spiritual Enrichment Center in Chico, California. He continues to expand his spiritual knowledge and personal practice and attends Science of Mind classes with the intention of becoming a Religious Science Practitioner and Reverend. He now lives a joyful and love inspired life with his girlfriend, Kamie, in Chico.
