Details: Born in Perth, Australia, James Wallace is an award-winning American performer, composer and producer. On a journey from subway platforms to Carnegie Hall, James has travelled and performed internationally, bringing a unique perspective to his music-making. Everywhere I go, offers James, Our similarities as people far outnumber our differences: in the end, we desire the same things- love, acceptance, sharing- and I contribute as much as I can through my music. As a New York City music teacher, James wrote and recorded this CD as a mission of hope after 9/11, based on his travels and experiences across America. I Feel the Winds of God is a hymn reminding James of standing at the summit of Rocky Mountain National Park in Colorado, where Indian chiefs would gather centuries ago. James recognizes this as a key spiritual moment to be shared in a recording (listen to track #8). 'Return to Good' rises like a gentle prayer: beautiful tones and a selection of rare instruments come as an invitation to listen, and to share. Enjoy unaffected beauty, charm and simple elegance in music by James Wallace, thats classic, yet contemporary. Listen! Find more about mp3s, photos, events, blog at: jameswallace.net
