Jonathan Winters at his best, as he riffs, ad-libs, makes up characters on the spot and leaves the people in the studio unable to control themselves. Rated 5 Stars by "The Serious Comedy Site" and "The Daily Joke" Reviews at bottom of this page. 16 MP3 Songs SPOKEN WORD: Comedy Details: Live in the Studio and Never Before Released "NOTICE: Contains Some Adult and Non-P/C Content" Back in the early 1960's when Jonathan Winters was a household name and the funniest guy in America, he went to Bell Sound Studio in New York City to record a few radio commercials. Well, someone left the tape machine running and captured Winters (and his co-announcers) just being themselves. For many years these wildly funny, slightly off-color and definitely politically incorrect recordings were an underground sensation--passed from friend to friend. Now, you can hear Jonathan Winters at his best, as he riffs, ad-libs on scripts, makes up characters on the spot and leaves the people in the studio unable to control themselves. Did the radio spots ever run? Who knows, but they are available now in this limited time offering. COMING ATTRACTION: CD includes bonus track -- a 5-minute sample from the forthcoming, never-before-released spoken word/comedy album by the late Jason Holliday, star of the award-winning 1960s documentary film, "Portrait Of Jason." This 2007 Darn Good release is titled "An Audio Portrait of Jason: Jason Holliday" and will soon be available via CD Baby.
