Details: Robert Grenier (b. 1981) is a singer/songwriter from Rochester NY. Hes played in several bands (most notably The Dents and The Minstrels), and began his solo career on the streets of Austin TX in 2006. His time playing solo-sets on street corners has led to a stripped-down and portable sound, usually with just guitar, vox, and harmonica. Hes played sets with many drifters and unknowns, all of whom left their mark in Roberts songcraft. Make It Through is Robert's 5th release, and was recorded Sept 2008 in Webster NY. Robert's most well-recieved work, it shows a tremendous leap-forward in both songwriting and performing ability. Fans of Robert's music would be wise to check out "Next To An Orphanage," surely his most inspired song to date. Lyrics: Make It Through You've got so much love to give and you've had so many years to live You don't know what to do But when you look into her eyes you know that you can sympathize You'd love to see her through x3 You've got the season on your side but you've got no car in which to ride Should you take your bow And you know that you have dreamed the dreams but how strong are you at the seams Who's gonna hurt you now But you know you'll make it through somehow You'll make it through somehow Time Is Blue Time is blue, love is green love is green, love is green Time is blue, love is green love is green, love is green Oh how they cheered when we were done I guess we left them wanting more We shared our love backstage high above We walked hand-in-hand out the door And outside was sunny, and peaceful, and bright The trees were swaying I heard this song playing, that... Chorus I know I've never said the words that I mean and I know that this world isn't quite like my dreams, but I want you to know in the spaces between when we meet I still think of you Tender and sweet...and that Chorus Next To An Orphanage I have to live next to an orphanage I guess that's alright with me

There's room in this land for everyone At least that's the way it's supposed to be At least that's the way it's supposed to be I have to live next to an orphanage I sell subscription to help them out ya see I have several other home-based businesses But I just keep the money I just keep the money They say "find one person to live your life with" Sounds like good advice to me I think I may have found that someone And it's as good as I remember it to be It's as good as I remember it to be I have to live next to an orphanage But that was never quite the plan But it's the best thing for me It's the redemption of an American man It's the redemption of an American man
