Details: Tricia Walker is a singer and songwriter whose songs are steeped in the passion, pain and grace of the American South. Born and raised in Mississippi, Tricia has become one of the clearest voices of her own time and place. Her music has been recorded by Faith Hill, Patty Loveless and Alison Krauss, whose performance of Tricia's Looking in the Eyes of Love earned a Grammy. A recording artist herself, Tricia has released seven recording projects that feature well-placed lyrics and music reflecting her pop, R B and storytelling influences. She has performed at the Country Music Hall of Fame and the Tin Pan South Songwriting Festival in Nashville, was a New Folk Winner at the Kerrville Folk Festival in Texas and featured at Austin's South by Southwest Music Festival. Other musical highlights include singing at Robert Redford's Christmas Cantata at Sundance Resort in Utah as well as a live performance during a newly choreographed work for the Nashville Ballet entitled "All the Way Home," co-written by Tricia and Kate Campbell. The uplifting anthem, What A Wonderful Day!, was written at the request of a friend for a luncheon celebrating breast cancer survivors. Several of the survivors at that luncheon provided background vocals on the recording. Over 30,000 copies of the song have found their way around the country by word of mouth and a grassroots effort from those who have shared its hope. Songs have great power. They stir our emotions, inspire us to greatness, soften our tears, and move our feet to dance. They heal our bodies and souls in ways we cant always understand. It was an honor for me to hold the pencil. Tricia Walkers music offers grace and encouragement with a beautiful voice, strong musicianship and the ease of a veteran entertainer. Southern style never had it so good. For more information, contact bigfrontporch.com
