During a false peace, war breaks out! It is over sixty years since the last world war ended. After great success in the War on Terror, the politicians and the analysts thought that another global conflict was impossible. They were wrong! Volume IV of the Dragon's Fury Series, The Long March, continues the exciting saga that projects a future arising out of current events where: - Implacable enemies of America develop surprising and very lethal high-technology military capabilities of their own. - America's unsecured southern border allows tens of thousands of terrorists to infiltrate into the nation. - The New Economy of off-shore manufacturing and outsourcing severely curtails domestic production and bolsters future enemies. - Citizens' constitutional rights are eroded in a vain effort to ensure domestic security. - Three generations of Americans never challenged for survival, must fight with their own weapons for their very existence. Come on this journey. Can America find the strength and the faith to prevail in a world-wide conflagration? If you have ever pondered issues like these, and if you enjoy an exciting thriller, you owe it to yourself to read the Dragon's Fury Series.
