

Harmonica Lesson/ Old Joe Clark (bluegrass)

Over the years, many of my students have asked about ways they can increase lung capacity and also about good places to take a breath when they begin to run out of air during a song. I've always recommended playing fiddle tunes to learn how to regulate your air. I've arranged this classic fiddle tune with that in mind. It also serves as a great warm up exercise no matter at what tempo its played. This is a challenging and fun arrangement for the harmonica. No overblowing is required , but a number of draw bends are used for this arrangement. Comes with tabs for the basic melody and also two fast and furious variations as heard by me playing in the video. This lesson also comes with three play-a-long tracks at slow, medium and fast tempos. Over 27 minutes long. Click on preview above for a sample.
