The CD contains 14 tracks of acoustic soulful jazz and blues with influences from Billy Holiday and Tom Waits to Janis Joplin. This new album is mixed by David Houston, who recently produced and mixed Jackie Green. Accompanying Andreas on his new CD is Gordon Greenley on Saxophones, Matt Funamura on trumpet, Rick Sterner on percussion and Henrie Beck on piano. Andreas is inspired by his fathers love for music. Music is the language for emotions and emotions sowed my way into writing music of my own, Andreas remembers. I could talk about what is in my heart and mind, and still do. Born in Europe, Germany, Andreas managed to gain great success and respect in the music community throughout Europe. Ive been playing music in Europe professionally since the 80s as a solo artist and with a project called Taxi, he says. I toured, recorded and worked as a singer in Munich, Berlin and Vienna, just to name a few cities. Andreas recorded his first album in the studios of EMI Cologne with Frank Farian, best known for his work with Milli Vanilli. Now residing in the United States, Andreas has headlined the Sacramento premier jazz club, Sky Bar, as well as many other important venues in Nashville and Colorado. Furniture house IKEA hired him to play in their Sacramento grand opening in March 2006. And he recently opened for Salvador Santana (Son of Carlos Santana). I am an artist combining jazz and blues, Andreas explains. It flows out of me with no borders. Like Elvis Presley, I see music not separated in styles. I intend to share my gift with as many people as possible, and feel part of the Universe at large when I play my music. Andreas is walking an honest emotional line in his music; he writes straight from his heart and soul, combined with an acrobatic radio voice. I love to share my gift and intend to find recognition in many different countries continuing on right here and now.
