completes the group. Why "Box o' Clox"? We've received many emails asking, "Why 'Box O' Clox'? "What does it mean"? Throughout the years we've had various names (The Coveyors, The Moodswings, 20/20, etc.) In the late '90s we felt a change was warranted. I don't recall how or why the name "Box O' Clox" came into my head, but I do remember that I was attracted to it for two reasons (1) it wasn't preceded by a "The"; and (2) it had a time element. It was spelled as "Clocks" until 2003, when Van Dyke Parks suggested that it be changed to "Clox" . . . to match "Box." (Actually, my wife had come up with the same idea a few months earlier, but it took Van's unrelated recommendation to convince me to change it).
